MONDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1904.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

3,235

There will be something doing in the legislature this week.

"Ought a woman to be hanged?" will be confused very likely with the question "Ought Mrs. Rogers to be hanged?" There will be need of clear thinking. It is not the province now to decide the former question.

If only President Roosevelt's visit to the St. Louis fair had come earlier in the year what an advertisement it would have been for the fair! The President's "de-lighted" would have been worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Now that the United States army has demonstrated its superiority over the United States navy on the foot ball field the battered pigskin will be laid away until another fall. The contest which the country's two fighting arms put up would have been creditable on any field of battle.

If the jurors in the Nan Patterson murder trial are anything like the general public they are probably pleased that the case must be retried. The general public has, on the first rehearsal of testimony, been unable to decide the case. When the public can't form a verdict the case must be still veiled in mystery.

The medical branch of the University of Vermont opens with good prospects for the year. When this worthy school is finally housed in its new and up-to-date structure there will not be many institutions in the country better prepared to turn out fighters of disease. The school has had a most honorable record—a matter of pride to the state of Vermont.

Montpelier city can look with cool complacency on the efforts of Cheyenne, Wyoming, to retain the state capitol. The matter has just been referred to the people of that state and the city of Cheyenne failed of securing a majority by a few over one thousand votes. There are three seekers for the state capitol against Cheyenne and they split up the majority of votes cast so that there was no choice. The Wyoming legislature will arrange so that the question will be again submitted to the people. Cheyenne is the present capital of the state.

WORK FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

There is work cut out for the legislature in its adjourned session which opens tomorrow and there is great need that all dillying and unnecessary delay be done away with. The years are rare, in which it has been necessary for the legislature to reconvene after Thanksgiving, but the situation was such this year that an adjourned session was required. Matters moved slowly and Thanksgiving week came earlier in the month than usual. The state's business which piled up toward the last of the session could not have been transacted properly and still have allowed a final adjournment previous to November 24. And no one wanted the legislature to rush through its work helter-skelter, without proper consideration of the matters. So the adjourned session this year is not regretted by the people of the state. However, the people do want their legislators to make good use of their time. The bulk of the business of the session is still before the legislature, not a sixteenth part of it having been done in the two months just past. Now it will be put through, probably, in two weeks. There is the caucus bill, passed by the Senate but still before the House for consideration; there is the completion of the plurality election bill; there is an automobile law imperatively demanded and not yet satisfactorily drawn up; there is the license law with its reported multimillion amendments; the election of an attorney general, but that will be easily disposed of; the consideration of the Mary Rogers case, which may be strung out almost interminably; lastly there is a list of petty fish and game bills now merged into one general measure. These are some of the more important matters left to be considered, and one must admit that with them still unacted for the great bulk of legislation is still before the House and Senate. Let there be work.

CURRENT COMMENT.

What the Press of the State and Country Is Talking About.

Montpelier, Vt., is making preparations to celebrate on Nov. 8 of next year the centennial of her distinction as the capital of the state. She hasn't grown much in a hundred years but still retains her youthful loveliness.—Boston Transcript.

A correspondent of the Montpelier Journal is exceedingly dissatisfied with Prof. Perkins, the state geologist, because the latter could find nothing but iron in rich-looking specimens which the correspondent had been told contained silver and gold. The Journal comments this outrageous case to Gov. Bell's attention. By all means let us have a state geologist who can find something better than iron for us. What are we paying him for? We want gold—diamonds—rubies, iron, forsooth!—Brattleboro Reformer.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Warranted Pure.
The jeweler says, "One Needs scarcely to be told The setting of the sun Is usually gold."

Turned Over.

Church—And then after awhile a complete turn came in my life. Gotham—I say, old man, you talk as if you were a paterfamilias.—Yonkers Statesman.

Staggards.

"It's never too late to learn," we're told. However, we beg to state, There's a little we learn as we grow old Except that it is too late.
—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Latest in Golf.

De Style—What is the latest fad in golf? Gumbasta—Having real detectives track up your lost balls.—St. Louis Republic.

"He Who Dances."

Jack Frost will bust your water pipes. That makes you dance, and when The plumber comes to fix the pipes You pay the piper then.
—Boston Globe.

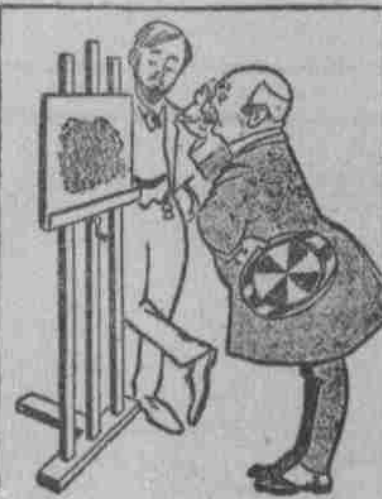

Licensed Crime.

Doctor—I think I'll have to call in some other physicians for consultation Patient—Go ahead. Get as many as complies as you wish.—Town Topics.

One View.

They say that dead men tell no tales. In death's long, listless nights, Of this or other worlds to come— And yet the funeral rites.
—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Acme of Art.

Visitor—A charge of cavalry! But, my dear sir, the horses are walking. Artist—Of course. Otherwise you would not have time to see them.

The Russian Admiral.

He "thought he saw" torpedo boats: His heart with horror beat. He looked again and saw it was A British herring fleet. He bawled away with might and main. Then signaled a retreat.

He thought he saw a man-o'-war. A "twinkled looking euse." He looked again and saw it was A hippopotamus. "Full steam ahead! Full steam ahead! The Japs are after us!"

He thought he saw a giant mine. His nerves were in a cramp. He looked again and saw it was A penny postage stamp. "We'd best dig out of here," he said. "The nights are getting damp."

He thought he saw a giant Jap. Who waved a dripping knife. He looked again and saw it was A letter from his wife. "My nerves are getting worse," he said. "I'll have to quit this life."
—Bert Lewton Taylor in Harper's Weekly.

SUICIDE IN HIS CELL.

German, Believed to Have Been a Hotel Thief, Had Been Arrested.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 28.—A man believed to be prominently connected in Germany committed suicide by hanging in a cell at the police station here yesterday. He was registered as Max Rickhardt, aged 27, German, at police headquarters. As he registered at three hotels here under different names and under other names in St. Louis and elsewhere throughout the country, he was called "the German prince of many aliases."

Letters were found addressed to Liddle Lang, Reichenbach, Saxony, Germany, and he said she was waiting there for his return. He was arrested last Tuesday at the Grand Hotel, where he had registered as Clement Luteran, and was charged with being a hotel thief. He had passports and letters of recommendation, that it is alleged, were stolen.

Since his arrest telegrams have poured into Cincinnati from Indianapolis, Louisville and other cities, especially from St. Louis, inquiring about the alleged hotel thief. He had railroad mileages in the names of J. Belmont of Cincinnati, and C. W. Nichols and L. McDonald of New York, all said to have been secured from rooms in hotels. While the man was wanted in a dozen cities, it is believed that he died without anyone in this city learning his name.

SIRENS AND SONS.

Geronimo, the famous Apache warrior, became a member of the Dutch Reformed church.

George Clinton Payne of Newark, N. J., is an energetic book connoisseur, although ninety years old.

Moses Myers of Quinlen, N. J., is the oldest glassblower in the United States. He is seventy years old and still active. He has fifteen children and has just taught his youngest son the trade.

Stymour G. Gourley, a Canadian Conservative who was defeated in the recent elections, during his two terms in parliament earned considerable notoriety by violent attacks on the United States.

Lieutenant General Chaffee always appears at his desk at the war department in full uniform, although the order requiring officers to wear their uniforms while on duty in the department has been rescinded.

President Roosevelt has joined the Old Boys' Fremont and Lincoln Republican club as a junior member, being a descendant of a man who either voted for Hale in 1852, Fremont in 1856 or Lincoln in 1860 or 1864.

William H. Lawrence, one of the pioneer electricians of Baltimore, is dead. He made for Professor Bell of Washington the magnets used in locating the bullet in President Garfield after the latter was shot by Guitau.

E. W. Judd, now a resident of Everett, Wash., claims that it was in his parlor, near Ripon, Wis., that the formation of the Republican party was decided upon. Mr. Judd is now a Prohibitionist. In 1854 he was a Free Soiler.

Purcell Powless, a full blooded Oneida Indian, grandson of a former chief of the tribe, has secured a position as motorman in the St. Louis street railway service. He is the second full blooded Indian to be employed by the St. Louis Transit company. Felix Scott, a Sioux, has been in the service six months.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Russia has only one school for every 2,300 inhabitants. Germany has one for every 700, England one for every 600, France for every 500.

Both at Bonn and at Breslau new colleges for girls have been opened, offering a six years' course after graduation from the high school.

Twice a week each of the national schools of Berlin receives from 100 to 150 specimens of four different kinds of plants for use in botany lessons.

In 1822 a scientific school was established at Darmstadt, which at a later date grew into a polytechnic school. In 1825, after seventeen years of deliberation and hesitation, a polytechnic school was opened at Karlsruhe.

There are 1,000 American teachers in the Philippines centered in 338 larger towns out of 934 towns in the entire archipelago. Two thousand primary schools are in operation, and they employ the services of 3,000 native teachers.

WEST TOPSHAM.

G. K. Church spent Sunday at Barre.

Marion McKnight and wife of Barre took Thanksgiving supper with Mrs. McKnight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Sanborn.

Willie Welch had his cows tested last week. Three were condemned; also for Allie Wood several more were tested, but found all right.

William Craggy, an old and respected citizen, died last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Boyce, at East Topsham. Mr. Craggy was a veteran of the Civil War. The interment was in the Waits River cemetery.

Hilas Church has sold his stock of cows to S. M. Hood and will live in the village this winter.

WASHINGTON.

A cotillion party was given Saturday evening from 8 until 12 at the Hotel hall. Music, Downing's orchestra.

H. W. Downing and wife have been away for several days on a visit to relatives in Randolph.

Several new members were initiated into full membership in the Grange Friday night, after which a harvest supper was given to a hall-full of grangers, and a good time was reported.

Will Clough, while working for T. D. Hyland in the woods last week, met with a very painful accident. In some way a large log rolled onto his foot, crushing the member very badly. Dr. Warner was called and dressed it, having to take five stitches to hold it together. Mr. Clough is doing well at this writing.

THE VAUGHAN STORE

Coats and Furs!

Warm Coats and Furs are pretty comfortable days like these. Of course those who have got to buy are thinking, "Where can I get the best cloth, style and tailoring for the money?"

We don't pretend to say we can secure any better Coats and Furs than the other fellow, but when it comes to selling them, with the small expense there is in running this business, we think we can afford to do it about as cheap as it can be done. Then we have the disposition to sell at a low margin and sell more of them. We have got some good trades in cheap Coats, but our strong points are on medium-priced and better Coats.
